Oxford Hotel Bend Awarded Top U.S. News & World Report Honors

Bend, Ore. – The Oxford Hotel Bend has been recognized as the #1 hotel in Bend and #2 hotel in Oregon by the U.S. News & World Report’s annual travel rankings.

Hotel industry experts and online guest reviews determine a property’s performance in the U.S. News & World Report’s annual awards, and these distinctions reflect the outstanding hospitality the Oxford Hotel Bend has continued to provide despite the challenges the past year has presented.

“All of us here at the Oxford are thrilled to once again be acknowledged as a top hotel by the U.S. News & World Report,” shared Samuel Johnson, General Manager at the Oxford Hotel Bend. “This past year has been incredibly challenging and it’s a testament to our commitment to hospitality that our team was not only able to maintain our level of service, but also move up seven spots from last year’s position in our state’s category. Our team’s dedication to safety and service is inspiring, and I am grateful to work with such wonderful individuals.”

Oxford Hotel Bend was built in 2009 as downtown Bend’s premier, four-diamond boutique hotel. Along with national recognition for cleanliness and service, the hotel is a destination for eco-conscious travelers and runs on 100% renewable energy. Family-owned and operated in Bend, the hotel is part of the Oxford Collection, an independent chain of properties located in Oregon, Washington, California, and Idaho.
